Detailed Course Outline

Introduction to Simulation

- Normally delivered over 3 races, the simulation is designed to introduce key components of project management through game dynamics. Project Delivery improves through the successful application of PM tools and techniques allowing the group to deliver projects of increasing complexity and interdependency. The software development cycle is central to the activity and participants are exposed to all process groups [initiation, planning, execution, control and closure]. While a large proportion of project management processes may be discussed, the following are considered in greater detail:

Race 1

- Silo Working [Operations, Business, Development]
- Communication Planning
- Poor Project Initiation/Planning
- Project Reporting
- Poor Business Awareness

Race 2

- Improved Initiation / Planning
- Introduced Project Chart, Plan, Project Objective Statement
- Priority Matrix
- Schedule Planning
- Work Breakdown Structure, Activity Definition/Sequencing Gantt Chart
- Duration and Cost Estimating
- Gantt Chart

Race 3

- Critical Path Analysis, Arrow Diagramming Method, Precedence Diagramming Method
- Project Control
- Planning Adaptive Action
- Risk [Qualitative Risk Analysis, etc]
- Acquiring a Team
